If there was a prize for the best comfort/cool combo, we'd give it to PRB. And if there was one for dedication to food in the face of easy money from drinking, PRB would get that too. It could be just a bar, but the people who run this place, Blair Russell and Melissa Morrow, want to serve good food. And they do, with the inspirational Sarah Conway turning out some of the best bistro classics in town — including perfectly cooked steaks (scotch or eye fillet), beautifully presented fish, and special delights such as a baked ricotta and blue-cheese terrine with a salad of pear, pecan and watercress. The wine list is so comprehensive, so insightfully chosen, it gives many smart-dining and fine-dining establishments a run for their money. So, maybe, come here to drink after all. Take your time, and savour a lot of very moreish food in the process. 🍷🍷🍷🍷

A favourite dish: Char-grilled scotch fillet with chunky chips and a parsley garlic butter.
